COTTON CONSUMPTION

World consumption of all kinds of cotton during the first half of the present season totaled approximately 12,067,000 bales, according to preliminary estimates of the Cotton Exchange Service, as against 11,660,000 in the first half of last season and 10,979,000 two seasons ago. That the world used American cotton at a relatively very high rate during the past six months is shown by the fact that American cotton contributed 56.5 per cent of all cotton consumed as against 52.5 per cent during the first half of last season and 49 per cent two seasons ago.

While at work on the seed order give thought to mangels, rutabagas, pumpkins and root crops as possible fall feeds, also to flowers, bulbs, and shrubs for ornamental planting of the yards and spaces near the dairy.

PYROIL

Costs Less Than Nothing

Because it saves more than its cost in Oil alone, and then it saves

MANY TIMES ITS COST IN

Gas, Oil, Wear and Repairs

Increases Gas Mileage and Makes Oil Last Twice As Long.

PYROIL is on sale by the following Elba Dealers:

Elba Oil Co., Whitman Drug Co., Elba Drug Co. and Peoples Drug Store

WHAT IS PYROIL? WHAT DOES IT DO?

PYROIL is a revolutionary new heat- and wear-resisting lubricant that gives "new life" to ALL motors and machinery. It is NOT a substitute for regular lubricants. It is simply ADDED in small quantity to the crankcase filling and to the gasoline or fuel.

PYROIL builds lubrication INTO the metal. It does what oil alone cannot do. It—(remember these are PROVEN FACTS)—reduces noise; reduces wear; increases power; saves oil; saves gas; frees valves; seals rings—gives thousands of "silky" noiseless, trouble-free miles without repair bills—mabes your motor better every mile you ride—is guaranteed absolutely non-injurious.

PYROIL saves more than its cost in the saving of lubricating oil alone. Thus, in reality, it actually costs its user nothing!

Put one oz. Pyroil A to each 5 gals. of gas in tank and 2 ozs. of Pyroil B to each qt. of oil in your crank-case and forget all of your motor troubles.

President Signs Bill Cutting Down Federal Expense; To Become Effective April 1st

WASHINGTON, D. C.—President Roosevelt Monday afternoon signed into law the economy bill empowering him to slash veterans' compensations and government salaries. With this weapon he intends to lop off about $500,000,000 from federal expenses. He had his aids already busy preparing the new schedule of salaries and veterans' allowances and expected to put these into effect before the next payday, April 1.

A minimum saving of $280,000,000 through reduced veterans' compensations and $100,000,000 in lowered salaries is contemplated in the administration moves to get the budget balanced within a year. Another hundred millions or more in savings is expected from reorganization and abolition of government agencies.

This is the second of the emergency measures to be signed by the president. A third one—the beer bill—is expected quickly at the White House.

President Roosevelt interrupted his luncheon being served on his office desk to sign the economy measure.

At 1:32 p.m. he picked up an old pen lying on the desk to affix his signature and directed that the pen be given to Lewis Douglas, director of the budget, who will share the brunt of administering the new act.

Henry Morgenthau, Jr., chairman of the Farm Board, was having luncheon with the president.

In the room also was a committee representing the Gridiron Club, an organization of newspaper men famed for its twice-yearly dinners, which was inviting the president to its next dinner.

Stephen T. Early, a secretary to the president, brought the bill in to the president shortly after it was received from Capitol Hill and without further much ado Mr. Roosevelt signed it.

Vice President Garner early Monday afternoon signed the bill.

The measure, allowing cuts of $500,000,000, passed by both congressional branches and signed by Speaker Rainey last week, was headed for the White House soon after the Senate met. Garner's signing had to be deferred over the week-end because of the Senate recess.

Much was ready for starting the huge savings, with some orders drawn up and others awaiting final approval. The effect of the law, giving the president great authority over veterans' payments and government salaries, may begin to show itself before the month is out.

Orders by the president himself were required to make most of the reductions.

However, in preparation for the bill's enactment, the veterans' administration last week ordered its field stations to discontinue awards in veterans' cases. It also suspended all admissions to veterans' homes and hospitals, except those of emergency nature.

Under the bill the president has the power to fix new regulations and new limits of eligibility for pensions, compensations, etc. This clause will remove thousands from the rolls and will prevent addition of thousands more.

Except for men permanently disabled, hospital and domiciliary care will be limited to those whose ailments were actually caused by war service. Pensions for civil war or previous service will be cut 10 per cent flat. Only those emergency officers who saw service and were injured during the actual World War period will be allowed further retirement pay.

All provisions of existing law under which ailments are presumed to be of war origin, if developed within so many years after the war, are now out.

In addition the president is authorized, after investigation of the cost of living, to cut all federal salaries except those fixed by the constitution, by as much as 15 per cent.

Final enactment of the beer bill became a matter of hours Monday as congressional conferees agreed to legalize a 3.2 per cent brew.

The conferees also agreed to retain the Senate amendment permitting wine and fruit juices of the same alcoholic content, and rejected the Borah amendment to prohibit sale of the beverages to children under 16 years of age.

Opponents of the Borah amendment have insisted the matter of such regulation should properly be left to the States.

Quick Death Meted Zangara For Mayor Cermak's Murder

RAIFORD, Fla.—Giuseppe Zangara, the man who killed Mayor Cermak of Chicago, and wounded four others in an attempt to assassinate President Roosevelt at Miami February 15, was electrocuted here Monday.

The little Italian immigrant was taken into the death chamber at 9:11 a.m., Eastern standard time. The current was applied at 9:15 a.m.

The prison was guarded by squads of national guardsmen armed with machine guns and stationed on building tops as the switch was thrown sending the current through Zangara's body. Zangara was officially pronounced dead at 9:27 a.m., 12 minutes after the electricity was applied.

The assissin was taken to the death cell escorted by two guards. He was dressed in striped trousers and white shirt, open at the neck. He wore no shoes.

When Zangara saw the chair he stopped suddenly and glanced around at the approximately 30 persons who stood in the death chamber.

Turning to his guards, Zangara said: "Don't hold me; I no afraid of chair."

The guards then released the assassin and Zangara walked unaided to the chair.

He looked over the death machine quickly and then strode over to Superintendent L. F. Chapman and handed him a sheaf of papers on which he had written: Here is that book I have been writing.

Zangara referred to the book of his life which he said he had started after his arrest in Miami.

After handing Chapman the papers, Zangara walked over and looked at the chair again.

"I no afraid of chair,' he said. "I no afraid of chair, see?"

With that he sat down in the death chair and eyed the witnesses curiously as attendants adjusted the straps on his hands and legs.

"No camera man here?" Zangara inquired from the chair, "no one here to take picture?"

Superintendent Chapman replied "no" just before attendants placed the metal cap on Zangara's head.

"Lousy captitalists," he shouted defiantly.

"No pictures, capitalists," he repeated. "All capitalists lousy bunch—crooks."

Then he said, "Good-bye. Adios to all the world. Good-bye."

With his head completely covered and his feet not quite touching the floor Zangara leaned back in the chair and relaxed to await the shocks.

YOUNG MATRON'S CLUB HONORS MRS. MESSICK—

Members of the Young Matron's bridge club complimented Mrs. R. C. Messick of Montgomery with a lovely party at the home of Mrs. George Morrow on Friday afternoon. The living room, where the guests were received, was gay with a profusion of Spring flowers. Three tables were arranged for bridge, and after the games delicious sandwiches and tea were served.

FISH FRY AT WOODMAN HALL—

A number of men in Elba were hosts to their wives and a few invited guests at the W. O. W. hall on last Friday evening.

Guests included Mesdames Sam Rowe, P. G. Mathis, Paul Morgan, J. D. Whitman, F. H. Talbot, Sam Sawyer, Walter Jackson, George Morrow, and R. C. Messick of Montgomery, and the hosts.

Mr. Almon Strain, Mrs. John Kendrick, Misses Madge Page and Mary Ruth Fleming went to Troy Sunday afternoon, where they gave a splendid program over WHET. The program was not only enjoyed by the Troy people, but by numbers of radio fans elsewhere.

Quite a number of Elba citizens, with the memory of March, 1929, were excited when the rain came down in such torrents Sunday afternoon and night. Many could see in their imagination themselves and all they possessed floating down Pea River, and we have heard some went so far as to pack their "grips" with their best, others moved their furniture into the attic. Swarms of people watched the rise of Pea River and White Water until late Monday night. However, on arising Tuesday morning they found there was no cause for alarm, and "Ole man river just kept rollin', he kept on rollin' along!"

Safe Banking Has Returned

The end of the bank holiday last week and the reopening of National banks and those connected with the Federal Reserve System under direct authority from the Secretary of the Treasury, and State banks under authority from the State Banking Department should bring a new note of confidence to those who have been skeptical about the soundness of these institutions.

The temporary closing of all of the banks of the United States under orders from the President, as we see it, was merely a step in the direction of ascertaining the exact condition of these financial institutions so that the Government might take a hand in the safe conduct of their business in the future. Congress passsed emergency measures and gave to the President and the Secretary of the Treasury such powers as are necessary to put the banking business on 100 per cent basis.

It is gratifying to note that practically every bank in this section of the State opened last week for normal operations. People need have no fear for the safety of funds deposited in banks now, as the ones now operating have been investigated and found to be 100 per cent safe and are licensed by the government, both State and National.

Those who in the past have not trusted their funds to the banks but have kept it buried or hidden between mattresses or in some other place about the home, should immediately take this money from hiding and deposit it in one of these 100 per cent banks. President Roosevelt's proclamation against hoarding gold or currency is still in force and any person thus holding their money is subject to a fine and imprisonment for doing so.

Inasmuch as the manks that are now open are considered 100 per cent sound, it seems that those who have been using Postal Savings would feel it their duty to withdraw these funds and place them in one of these sound banks where they will be used for the benefit of the commercial life of the community. All loans made by banks are a direct help to merchants, professional men and corporations in the territory served by that bank. Money deposited in Postal Savings are taken out of the commercial life of the community, and for that reason these funds should now be placed into the channel where they will help in bringing back normal business conditions.

The first major problem of the President's "new deal" was the banking situation. He has succeeded in putting these institutions on a safe and sound basis, and the people of the country can do their party only by showing their confidence and using the banks.

FOREST WARDEN KILLED WHILE ON DUTY NEAR HACODA; SHOT THRU HEART IN REVENGE PLOT

ANDALUSIA, Ala., March 18.—The mutilated body of Will Tubberville, 45, forest rider for the Jackson Lumber Company of Lockhart, was found early today in a wood a half mile across the Geneva County Line, near Hacoda, by a searching party after an all-night hunt. He had been shot twice through the heart and there were indications an automobile had been driven over his body several times.

When Tubberville failed to return to the lumber company headquarters last night, after supervising the fighting of a forest fire near the county line, a search was instituted and his body was found at daybreak today.

Five empty .32 caliber pistol cartridges were found near his body, and his pistol, of the same caliber, was missing. Officers said that Tubberville probably was slain somewhere else and his body placed in the spot where it was found by the searchers.

Sheriff Tom Gantt, of Covington County, and Sheriff J. A. Driver, of Geneva, launched an immediate investigation but late last night no arrests had been made. Bloodhounds from Kilby Prison at Montgomery were brought to the scene today in an airplane that landed at Lockhart, about 30 miles from here.

Rewards totaling several hundred dollars have been offered for apprehension of the slayer. D. Hamp, State forester for the Andalusia District, announced that his department had offered a $200 reward, while the Jackson Lumber Company officials said they would offer a "substantial" reward.

A coroner's jury empanelled early today by Coroner J. M. Thomas, of Geneva County, investigated the slaying and fixed the time of death at approximately midnight, or about five hours before the body was found. Tubberville had been out with the fire fighting expedition until about 11 p.m., Friday, at which time the flames had been brought under control.

No motive for the slaying could be advanced by officers investigating the case.

Tubberville lived about five miles east of Green Bay, in Covington County. Hacoda is just across the line in Geneva County, about 30 miles from Andalusia. Lockhart, where the Jackson Lumber Company is located, is near Florala on the Alabama-Florida line.

Surviving Tubberville is a 14-year-old son, Stacy. The forest rider was well known in this section and had many friends who have joined in the hunt for his slayer or slayers.

Ranger Death Believed To Be Revenge Plot

GENEVA, Ala., March 20.—Sheriff J. A. Driver, of Geneva County, and Sheriff Tom Gantt, of Covington County, and their deputies pressed forward in the investigation of the killing of Will Tubberville, forest ranger, near Hacoda, Friday night.

Sheriff Driver said that the officers were proceeding upon the theory that revenge was the motive for the slaying, although Tubberville was known to be a peaceful and an able officer.

Tubberville, it was learned, had been diligent in prosecuting offenders who started forest fires and his death followed by a few hours a long battle with a forest blaze that had been started near Hacoda. He has been instrumental in the conviction of several persons.

Sheriff Driver said the officers had not yet ascertained whether Tubberville was slain in Covington County and his body dumped into Geneva County or whether he was killed where the body was found.

Three bullet wounds were in the body, two bullets having entered the same wound. A .32 caliber revolver was used. Sheriff Driver said he believed more than one person was implicated in the slaying and that arrests would probably be made in a few hours.

MISS SARA MATHIS ENTERTAINS W. H. A. T. CLUB—

Complimenting members of the W. H. A. T. Club, Miss Sara Mathis entertained with a lovely party on Saturday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

Miss Mathis used several beautiful vases of dogwood in the living room, where two tables were placed, and the guests enjoyed bridge. Later a number of young men joined the party. The hostess, assisted by Mrs. P. G. Mathis, served a tempting salad course with an iced drink. Honor guests of the club were Mesdames Paul Morgan and Sam Sawyer.

Mrs. Cora Saunders and daughter, Margaret, of Dothan spent Sunday in Elba with Mrs. F. H. Talbot.

Mrs. Barney Cole and little son, Harold, of Opp are spending the week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Hamm.

Heaviest Rain In Years Fell In Elba Sunday Afternoon

What is said to have been the heaviest rain for several years, in fact the heaviest since the flood of 1929, fell throughout this section Sunday afternoon and night. Not only was the rain heavy in this particular section but from accounts it was pretty general all over the State and in many other States.

At Elba the river rose rapidly Sunday afternoon late and Sunday night, and the banks were pretty well filled by Monday morning. Some grew uneasy about the rise of water, but there was no immediate danger. One or two more big rains might have caused considerable trouble here.

Considerable damage to highways and roads is repoorted, and farmers who had land prepared for planting and some who had already planted may have to do this work over. In some places land has been washed considerably and in practically every field seed beds have been sanded so badly that replanting may be necessary.

Five Hundred Farmers Apply For Seed Loans

More than 500 hundred Coffee County farmers have placed applications for seed and fertilizer loans up to Saturday night, according to figures given us Monday by W. M. Ray, county agent. At Enterprise 236 had applied and at Elba the number was 267.

It was expected that many applications would be taken this week and the number greatly increased. Mr. Ray also stated that the committee was hoping to get returns on the first applications by the last of the week, as seed loan officials had promised quicker action this year.

BAPTIST W. M. S. MEETS AT CHURCH—

The Womans Missionary Society of the Baptist Church met Monday afternoon with Mrs. L. P. Mullins presiding. The Royal Service program was given and those contributing parts were Mrs. W. F. Rainer, Mrs. T. B. Bryan and Mrs. B. S. Franklin.

The writer wonders if something could be done about the water that collects and stands on the main streets and sidewalks of our town after a big rain, such as we had Sunday. It is terrible. In some places, the people can't even get out in their yards, and are actually marooned. Servants can't go home. Last but not least their health is endangered by having the water collect and stand under their houses. It is really a menace to health. Something should be done. Please, Mr. Mayor and Councilmen, won't you do something about it?

Bankhead Would Send One Million To Farms Relieving Crowded Industrial Centers

BIRMINGHAM, Mar. 21.—Passage of his bill to provide farms for 1,000,000 persons now unemployed in industrial centers was predicted by Senator Bankhead, who was in Birmingham Monday.

The bill has the endorsement of President Roosevelt and the secretary of the interior under whom the project would be administered, and awaits only a solution to the question of finance, Senator Bankhead said.

Government appropriations of $400,000,000 would be necessary to supply small farms and launch those selected on their farming careers, he said. The bill is now before an agricultural subcommittee, of which Senator Bankhead is chairman. He predicted it would be put over by the president, with action by the end of the present session.

The farms would be small and would be designed to support the occupants by intensive and diversified farming, without any added competition to present agriculture.

Heads of families and those with previous farm experience would be selected and launched on the small plots, supplied with a cow, pigs, chickens, etc. At the end of three years the new farmers would begin repaying the government which would retain a mortgage to run 25 years at 4 per cent.

Senator Bankhead said he had encountered no opposition to the measure and that it would stimulate business generally by the purchase of the necessary supplies to start the project.

All land would be bought by the government, he said.

Senator Bankhead gave the following views on things in general:

What Congress does depends upon what President Roosevelt wants it to do. That will be done.

Distribution of patronage is not likely to come up until after the present session and Mr. Farley has told senators and congressmen that there will be no departure from the past method of letting them hand out the jobs.

Washington has disposed of the beer question and eighteenth amendment and it is now up to the states.

Farm relief is the most important thing now faced in Washington, as the buying power of the farmers must be restored before normal business can be expected.

Muscle Shoals may be taken up after the problems of farming, banking, unemployment and railroads are disposed of.

The country has not embarked on an inflation of currency and the additional money printed to reopen banks was not needed because of the great confidence inspired by President Roosevelt.

Russian recognition will come early in the Roosevelt administration.

President Roosevelt made no mistake in selecting Miss Frances Perkins for secretary of labor. She's smart.

Senator Bankhead favors a public works program to be paid for with money to which a two-cent postage stamp would be affixed by the holder every Wednesday for a year, thus enabling the government to retire the money at no cost to taxpayers.

Alabama political jobs have been discussed but no agreement has been reached because the Alabama delegation does not yet know whether President Roosevelt will permit Republicans to remain in office until the expiration of their terms.

FARMER JONES AND HIS COW PEN

BY W. M. BRUNSON

Corn planting time is here and we have our entire crop planted. We always plant corn the first ten days in March. Sometimes we have to plant over but we always have corn to sell. If you ever make a good corn crop when you plant late you should not tell it, as you might cause your children to make a failure trying to do the same thing. If you have not planted your corn, then do so at once, as it is getting mighty late to plant. I realize that you can make good corn planted in April but I have observed that those who have corn to sell every Spring are the ones who plant early. I believe in following or taking advice from the man who succeeds with the things I'm interested in. So plant now if you have not already done so.

It is also time to begin thinking about planting velvet beans. I know of some men who have planted their beans but I doubt the wisdom of planting beans this early. Of course, the nature of the soil is an important factor in deciding when to plant your beans. If your soil is high and dry and not too fertile it is all right to plant your beans now but if your soil is fertile or damp natured it is too early. Of course, it all depends on how many beans you want to make. I've never known of a good farmer making too many beans. If you wish to make a quantity of beans per acre it is best to plant them forty days after you plant your corn. If your corn can get forty days start on our beans the beans will not choke your corn out. If you need a quantity of beans plant them forty to fifty days later than the corn. A good farmer grows beans abundantly.

What about those early plants I talked to you about? Have you grown them? I hope you have. It is very necessary that you have a hot bed or boxes to grow cabbage, tomatoes, egg plants and the like. We simply must use our heads as well as our hands. A farmer who does not have a hot bed for his sweet potatoes is too slow for this day and time.

Sallie has all her plants ready to put out and she has had me at work for several days putting out lot fertilizer. Sallie will not have horse lot fertilizer under any of her crops. It must be cow lot fertilizer or we go to the woods for rotten leaves. Sallie says horse lot fertilizer is good to make a hot bed or cotton but she will not have it in her garden. I've found out by experience that Sallie is right, as usual.

It is now time to shut up your hogs. The next ninety days will determine your hog crop. A good farmer will have green corn ready for his hogs in ninety days. It is possible to have green corn by the first week in June if you plant and fertilize it correctly. Of course, it takes some good work, too. Strawberry corn will make in ninety days. I suggest that you plant a patch of strawberry corn and a patch of dent at the same time. The dent will be about two weeks later than the strawberry. The first day the corn will do to cut begin feeding it to your hogs. Feed it on a floor if you can. From now to the 15th of June is the time we must feed dry feed to our hogs. Do not allow your pigs to lose a pound in weight, but instead push them all the time. It may cost you just a little to get feed for the next ninety days, but it will pay you to get it and push your hogs. The price will be better by the Fall of the year.

I told you last week that I would make a suggestion soon as to how we might remedy our poverty-stricken condition. Interest is the viper that is sucking the very life blood from our financial existence. It takes 8½ billion dollars each year to pay the interest on what we owe and there is not that much actual cash in circulation. How can we carry on? We all owe 154 billion dollars and we have about 5 cents in the dollar to pay it with. It is a physical impossibility for us to pay all we owe, much less the interest on it. We could not afford to repudiate these debts but if we do not do something they cannot be paid. I say stop the interest on all existing debts. If one owed me I'd be glad to get the principal and let the interest go. All new matters could bear interest if we agreed to pay it. If this was done we could at least hope to pay what we owe some day, but as it is, how can we hope to pay the principal when we cannot even pay the interest? If the farmer is to have a new deal why not give him one like this?—stop the accumulation of interest on all existing debts, exempt 160 acres of land from all taxes, forbid the giving of mortgages on the home lands, and fix it so no lien can be given, created or maintained against the home except for the original purchase price of same. Then fix a sales tax and an income tax sufficient to operate the Government and the farmer will be able to stand his hand at any time. Believe me, a new deal of this kind would save the farmer, stabilize the Government and would make the man pay who has and spends the money. In my opinion, this would be a real relief, and it would last a long time. If this country ever thrives again it will be when the individual homes thrive, and this plan will bring prosperity back to the homes of this great land. We could prosper now if the great burden of interest and taxes were lifted. My suggested plan lifts the load and permits us to prosper as we farmers should.

STRANGE COOPERATION

An odd story of cooperation between enemies was related in the House of Commons recently during a debate over Britain's attitude toward hostilities in the Far East.

As reported by the Associated Press, purchasing agents representing China and Japan chanced to meet in the waiting room of a London munitions manufacturer and during some delay in obtaining an audience with the head of the firm they engaged in friendly conversation.

Finally they got to comparing the prices they were paying for war material and decided that both were paying too much. They agreed to go to the manufacturer together and do a little "collective bargaining." By putting in a united front each obtained prices about 40 per cent below those originally quoted by the manufacturer.

THE LESSON FOR SUNDAY, MARCH 26

Subject—Jesus Our Example In Service."—Review Lesson for the Quarter.

Golden Text—"Jesus of Nazareth . . . went about doing good." Acts 10:38.

Scripture Reading—Isaiah 32:1-8; Supplementary readings—Luke 4:16-22; Revelation 14:1-21, 22, 10-21.

NOTES ON THE LESSON TEXT

The Scripture text for the review study of the quarter is taken from the description of the character and mission of the Messiah as given in the Book of Isaiah, chapter 42. Isaiah was one of the greatest of the Hebrew prophets, and as well a wise religious statesman. The latter part of his book, from chapter 40 to the end, is so different in spirit, as well as in application, that these 26 chapters (40-66 are now generally regarded as coming from a later prophet whose name is unknown. He is a man of such universal outlook that in several "sub-Isaiah" points out that benefits of the mission of the Messiah who was to come should not be selfishly retained within the Jewish fold, but should be extended to the non-Jewish part of the world. Jesus often quoted from this latter portion of our book of Isaiah—as for instance his passage in Luke 4:16-22 is his reading in his "home town church" from the opening verses of Isaiah 61. Jesus was a deep sympathy and affinity between the Master and this master prophet, whether he was the historical Isaiah or a latter one of the spokesmen for German election results this spring.

The first verse describes the Messiah as chosen and approved by the Father to commit the secret of Jesus' baptism. It declares the Messiah is filled with God's spirit; compare Luke 4:1. It depicts his universal mission; compare Jesus' words to his disciples: "Ye shall be witnesses unto me in Jerusalem, Judea, Samaria, and unto the uttermost parts of the earth." Further, it describes the character of the Messiah in his gentleness, his truth, his unfailing trust and courage, and the final authority in all the earth. It is the omnipotent God of the universe who will call him in righteousness and uphold him. But significantly enough the majestic passage of Scripture does not stop with even the successful consummation of the Messiah's mission. It pictures him, rather, in the midst of it, opening the eyes of the blind, bringing out the prisoners from the dungeon, and those that sit in darkness from the prisonhouse. So we today are to look forward to the time in the future when Christ will be King of kings —while, at the same time, we follow in sacrificial living, in humble service, in the labor of his mission among men.

A REVIEW LESSON

During this quarter we have studied from the Gospel of Mark the basic lessons about the life and work of Jesus. We saw first John preparing the way, then Jesus beginning his work, forgiving sin, teaching the real purpose and meaning of the Sabbath, choosing the twelve disciples to be apostles, teaching lessons of the kingdom of parables, showing his power over nature, giving life and health, and ministering to the multitudes. It would be well while to review these lessons, to run back over them to see again their great truths. But the thing most important is this: "To review" means to "see again." And we should not only "review" the lessons, but "SEE AGAIN" Jesus.

There are many ways in which we may see Jesus again. Often we look at him as an IDEAL. And no one has ever lived a character to draw us upward toward himself is a perfect aim for good in life. Again, we look upon him as a MASTER TEACHER, whose words had both authority and truth. And to us all his words recorded in the Gospels is a precious heritage. Also, we look upon Jesus as our divine Saviour. And without such a Saviour we as individuals and as society would be lost, where with him we are redeemed. But there is another way in which it is the object of this "review" lesson to get us to "see again" Jesus. And that is, to see him as our EXAMPLE. The world has not been slow to idealize Jesus, to admire his teachings, to extol him as Saviour. But it has been very slow in taking him as an example. We KNOW enough Christianity to cure the world's troubles with the world and with human life is only that we do not ACT like him!

SLASH PINE PAPER

Experiments which have been in progress for several years have finally resulted in the production of first-class newsprint paper from Southern slash pine, the latest developments representing a revolutionary discovery in paper-making.

Such is the assertion of Dr. Charles H. Herty, former president of the American Chemical Society, who has been a pioneer in the researches leading to the recently announced result. Paper has been made from slash pine before, but the latest product is the first to meet all the requirements of standard newsprint, and even exceeds them.

Perhaps the most sensational fact about the new product is its strength and light weight. It is not a "burst strength" of 10 to 12 pounds to the square inch, compared with only six to 10 pounds for usual grades of newsprint, in addition to being somewhat lighter in weight.

Another advantage in using slash pine is seen in the fact that by a new method of cultivation discovered by a 20-year-old Georgia farm boy, Marion Renfroe, trees of sufficient size for paper making can be grown in seven years, whereas the average age of Canadian pulpwood trees now generally used is 50 years.

The fact that two-thirds of the newsprint paper used by American newspapers is now imported, chiefly from Canada, indicates the possibilities of developing a great paper industry in the South. These possibilities should fit in admirably with President Roosevelt's reforestation program.

OUR FIRST SPEAKER

An article in the National Republic gives some interesting information concerning the first speaker of the national House of Representatives, an able man whose name few of this generation ever heard.

He was Frederick Augustus Conrad Muhlenberg, born in Pennsylvania in 1750, the son of a German pioneer, a Lutheran preacher. The son followed in his father's footsteps and also became a Lutheran preacher at the early age of 20, six years before the Declaration of Independence.

Young Muhlenberg was a staunch supporter of the Revolution, and because of his patriotic expressions was chased from place to place by the British. Nothing daunted, he continued to preach liberty as well as the gospel, and was elected to the Continental Congress.

After liberty had been won and the new constitution had been adopted, Muhlenberg was sent to the First Congress and was elected its first speaker, and was subsequently speaker of the Third Congress. Before going to the national Congress he had served two terms as speaker of the Pennsylvania Legislature.

His brilliant career as preacher and legislator came to an untimely end in 1801, when he died at the age of 51.

STREET CARS AND MEN

Surely no one will consider us lacking in reverence if we say that every one of the "principles of modern salesmanship" on which business men so much pride themselves, are brilliantly exemplified in Jesus' talk and work. The three and perhaps the most important of these are simply for "putting yourself in step with your prospect." A great sales manager uses to illustrate it in this way:

"When you want to get aboard a street car which is already in motion, you don't run at it from right angles, but try to make the platform in one wild leap," he would say. "If you do you are likely to find yourself on the floor. No. You run along beside the car, increasing your pace until you are moving just as rapidly as it is moving and in the same direction. Then you step aboard easily, without danger or jolt.

"The minds of busy men are in motion. The world continues. They are engaged with something very different from the thought you have in mind. You must put yourself in the other man's place; try to imagine what he is thinking; and then take your first mark be in line with it."

Cottonseed Meal As Livestock Feed

AUBURN, Ala.—The importance of cottonseed meal as a feed for farm animals is being emphasized not only because of its value as a feed but also because stocks of this important farm product are accumulating.

F. W. Burns, extension animal husbandman of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, said that cottonseed meal should not constitute over 9 per cent of the ration for hogs and not over 10 per cent of the ration for horses and mules. At the same time, he gave a "Menu for 1933" for dairy cows showing the amount of feed it would be necessary to raise at home in order to give a cow proper feed for one year.

This menu follows: 3 tons of silage, 1 ton of legume hay, 2 acres permanent pasture, 15 bushels of corn, 15 bushels of oats, 500 pounds of wheat bran, and 500 pounds of cottonseed meal.

He emphasized the importance of proper feeding for dairy cows, saying that more Alabama dairy cows fail to pay a reasonable profit because of being improperly fed than for any other reason. He urged farmers to estimate their feed needs and begin now to plant crops and improve pastures in order to have sufficient home-grown feed.

"The 'Menu for 1933' contains enough feed to produce 750 gallons of milk or 300 pounds of butterfat if reasonably good cows are used," he said.

County agents throughout the State are stressing the importance of keeping the feed dollars at home by growing sufficient feed for the dairy cows, hogs, work animals, and other livestock on the place.

We are sitting high up in the Protective Life Building in Birmingham, the home of WAPI, looking back over a full life. As a preacher we have had to try and comfort the widow and the orphan. As a lawyer we have had to look after the estates of clients. As a newspaperman we have had to write stories with a sob in them because women and children were in need of food, shelter and clothing, and this is why we are so anxious to use the few years left to us to beg men to make provision for their families before it is too late. If we can do this we will bless some homes which otherwise would be cast down with sorrow.

A rather curious thing recently happened in the Chattahoochee Times, for next to one another on the editorial page was our picture and that of Dr. Ellison Cook, we a Baptist preacher, and he a Methodist preacher. In Washington, Georgia, about 30 years ago he was pastor of the Methodist church while we shepherded the Baptist flock. Now we are both columnists, and for once got in the same pew. Well, he is a mighty fine fellow and we were glad to rub elbows with him again.

There is one thing coming out of women getting court house jobs and that is that they help to keep them clean. Down at LaFayette, Mrs. Hattie Mae McConnaghy has recently supervised the cleaning up of the various offices and corridors. The building looks a whole lot better. Every court house in the State ought to have a thorough Spring cleaning.

The next time we go squirrel hunting, we want to go with Mayor Burton of Jasper, C. S. Burton, and A. L. Sherer, for in squirrel time they brought home seven squirrels killed in one tree, and some of 'em got away. It must have been a Walker County squirrel convention treed by their dog.

NOTICE!

This is the time of year the children call "Kite Flying Time" and which is enjoyed by hundreds of children, but there is a certain amount of danger in this sport if not carried on in the proper places. It is exceedingly dangerous to fly kites where there is any chance of the kite or kite strings coming in contact with the electric wires, especially is this true if the string should be wet or a fine wire be used for a string, as these are conductors of electricity.

We therefore appeal to the parents, to see that the children are properly informed as to this danger, and the flying of kites carried on in localities where there are no electric wires. The cooperation of the public is earnestly solicited and appreciated.

Mystery
Suspense
. . . . . . and Love

Joyce, as she opened her eyes on that memorable morning, was equally surprised at the warm, flower-scented air, at the luxurious sleeping porch where she lay and at the diamond circlet on her wedding finger.

Was she married? Was it Summer? Surely the fruit-laden orange trees she could see were not in Chicago—this silk-covered bed was not a hospital cot. Yet—the last thing she remembered was a skidding taxicab on a sleeting November day in Chicago.

And when a man came and sat on her bed and kissed her good-bye for a hurried business trip, telling her to be careful after her fall from her horse the day before, her mystification was complete.

So she was married.

Later she discovered from her toilet articles that her initials are F. L. P. . . . and that the house she lived in was rich—and beautiful.

It is a masterful story . . . masterfully told, by ELINORE BARRY . . . . "Awakened Woman" will start in The Clipper at an early date. If you miss a single installment . . you will regret it. Watch for the date.

15 Per Cent Cut In Federal Pay Ordered by President; Forest Bill Passes In Senate

WASHINGTON, March 28.—A flat 15 per cent cut in the salaries of Governement officers and employees—the maximum permitted under the recent economy bill—was ordered today by President Roosevelt to begin next Saturday.

It is to continue until June 30, the end of the present fiscal year. What action will be taken then will depend on whatever change has taken place in the cost of living.

In ordering the new salary slash, the President automatically did away with the present 8 1-3 per cent cut brought about by the furlough system put in force by the Hoover administration. The present reduction is from the basis enjoyed before the previous cut.

The pay cut was estimated to save $30,000,000 the remainder of this fiscal year, or at an annual rate of $120,000,000.

The order will effect the highest and the lowest in the Federal service except where specifically exempted by previous law, as in the case of the President himself and Federal judges.

Civil service experts estimated tonight that around 560,000 Government employees would be touched directly, ranging from laborers to the highest chiefs of departments and including all the classes in between.

To this number must be added the entire personnel of the army and navy, including all officers.

In his executive order, Mr. Roosevelt said he had determined that the cost of living had dropped 21.7 per cent since the first half of 1928.

President Roosevelt's bill to put men to work in the forests swept through the Senate today without even the formality of a record vote and was sent to the House, where leaders forecast its approval tomorrow.

The Senate then prepared to take up tomorrow, if the Chief Executive desires, the second part of his broad unemployment relief program—a bill to create a $500,000,000 fund for direct grants to the States.

This broader plan for aid to the destitute swiftly was approved by the Senate banking committee earlier in the day without a dissenting vote. The necessity for its quick approval was somewhat lessened, however, when the Senate adopted an amendment to the reforestation measure removing restrictions on relief funds already authorized.

Besides the creation of the $500,000,000 relief fund, the President plans also a huge public works program running to about $1,000,000,000 and probably liberalization of the law under which the Reconstruction Corporation makes loans for public construction by States and subdivisions.

To Rush Shoals Bill

WASHINGTON, March 28.—Early submission to Congress of a bill for the development of Muscle Shoals and other projects on the Tennessee River and for a broad program of reforestation and other improvements in the valley was indicated Tuesday by President Roosevelt in a conference at the White House with Representatives Lister Hill and Henry B. Steagall.

Congressman Hill is author of one of the seven bills for disposition of Muscle Shoals that have been introduced into the present session of Congress and as second ranking Democrat of the military affairs committee he will manage the legislation in the House, while Congressman Steagall is chairman of the banking and currency committee and an advocate of early disposition of the project.

The President is believed to be drafting his own ideas into legislative form, so that the exact form of the bill he will sponsor remains in doubt.

Carnley, Dry, Plans Gubernatorial Race

(Wednesday's Advertiser.)

Judge J. A. Carnley, of Elba, probate judge of Coffee County, announced yesterday that he will make the race for Governor next year on the two main issues of adoption of a State income tax and retention of the 18th amendment in the Federal Constitution.

If and when the pending income tax amendment is submitted, Judge Carnley said he intends to stump the State in favor of its ratification. In connection with his statement in favor of keeping the 18th amendment in the Constitution, he declared he does not believe a legal State convention to pass on the question of repeal can be held under the Mullins convention bill which was passed by the Legislature yesterday over Gov. Miller's veto, and said that in his judgment, election of delegates to the convention can be enjoined.

Judge Carnley was one of Gov. Miller's opponents in the gubernatorial campaign of 1930.

Worth While Work Done By County Women's Exchanges

During the past month the three exchanges in Coffee County, located in the incorporated towns of Enterprise, Elba and New Brockton, have had 207 women to apply for work; 92 white women and 93 colored women have been assigned to jobs; 217 jobs have been successfully completed, for which $135.91 has been paid in money, groceries or clothes.

The work of these exchanges is continually increasing as the people in the communities become acquainted with the purpose of these organizations. They are proving quite a convenience, not only to the woman who needs work, but to the housekeeper as well.

During the past week the exchanges have taken on the additional task of helping men to get in touch with employers. In several cases a farmer has applied for a plow hand for a limited length of time. The exchanges have been able to place men in almost every instance.

Several needy boys in the county have secured permanent homes in country families in this way through these exchanges.

The directors of these exchanges welcome applications from these men and boys and endeavor to help them secure jobs.

JOHN LONG, DEAF MUTE, FOUND DEAD IN VACANT HOUSE IN CITY OF FLORALA; ONCE LIVED HERE

Many people in Elba and throughout this section will regret to learn of the death of John Long, deaf and dumb man, whose dead body was found in a vacant building in Florala on Monday afternoon, April 13. Long had been missing for a week, and relatives and officers had been searching the country over for him. It will be recalled that relatives came to Elba during the week to make inquiry about the missing man.

Mr. Long, whom everybody knew as "Dummy," was a citizen here for a number of years, before moving to the Covington County city. Despite his handicap, he was quite popular and was held in highest esteem. The Florala News, in its issue of March 16, has the following account of his mysterious death:

Searching for empty bottles to exchange for theatre tickets, about 4:30 last Sunday afternoon, two Florala boys discovered the dead body of John Long, 65, a deaf-mute, who had been missing since Sunday, March 5, and for whom a county-wide search had been made.

Believing the dead body to be a drunken man, the boys became frightened and ran away, keeping their discovery a secret from fear that the supposed drunken man would avenge himself upon them should they expose him. Thinking the way would be clear on Monday afternoon, they returned to complete their search for bottles, when much to their surprise the supposed drunken man was still there in the same attitude in which they had left him the day before. This time, the boys returned home and related the circumstances, which resulted in the discovery of the missing man lying cold in death upon the floor of an upstairs room of a vacant building almost in a stone's throw of the very heart of town, where he had spent many years of his life, and enjoyed the good will and friendship of practically everyone. Everybody here knew "Dummy" Long, and he was a most likeable character.

Long was last seen sometime Sunday afternoon, on March 5, when he failed to return Sunday night to the home of his daughter, Mrs. Lunsford, where he resided, she became alarmed, and on Monday reported his absence to the authorities. A general search was made, and relatives in various parts of the country where it was thought he might possibly have gone, were communicated with, but nothing could be learned of his whereabouts. The veil of mystery was complete and was not lifted until the accidental discovery of his body as above stated.

Always in the best of health and spirits apparently, and always with a friendly and jolly greeting in his sign language for every one he knew, the merest suggestion of self destruction to account for his mysterious death was rudely discounted by all who knew him, and resulted in the coroner's jury empaneled to inquire into the cause of his death, returning a verdict that he died from natural causes.

There was a strong feeling Monday night that he had met with foul play, which caused a postponement of the verdict, until a thorough investigation could be made by Sheriff Tom Gantt and his deputies, who could find no evidence in support of this opinion. Dr. F. W. Galloway, and J. C. Evans, who is a mortuary expert, both testified that in their opinion his death was due from natural causes.

The theory now accepted by most of those familiar with the details, is that he was probably stricken with appoplexy, and sought this secluded place, thinking he would quickly recover, and died before he could summon help.

His money, knife and other valuables were found to be intact, except that his knife and a 25-cent piece had fallen out of his pocket and lay on the floor near the body.

The body was taken to the Shepherd Funeral Home for examination and to be prepared for burial. The jury composed of Messrs. T. R. Roberts, J. H. Dillard, M. P. Willis, J. C. Evans, Hubert Evans and Guy Wilson, reconvened Tuesday evening at 6 o'clock and rendered the verdict as above stated.

FARMER JONES AND HIS COW PEN

BY W. M. BRUNSON

Well, do you know about the "New Deal" I'm advocating for the farmer and the poor man? Here it is just as I would like to see it done: "Exempt the homestead or 160 acres from all taxes, exempt all the personal property used on the homestead from all taxes, make it impossible or illegal for the homestead to be mortgaged or encumbered in any way, pass an income tax and a sales tax to carry the burden of the Government, and stop the accumulation of interest on all existing indebtedness." Such a deal would relieve the farmer in this section and put him back on his feet. It would also be of great help to the average man living in town. Such a change would stabilize the farming interest and place the tax burden where it belongs. Of course, it would be necessary to place some limitations and restrictions or the plan would be abused. It would also be necessary to make a few exceptions, all of which could be easily arranged.

I've had several inquiries as to the best variety of corn to plant. I do not advocate any certain variety of corn as there are many good varieties. The best rule I know of to follow is to carefully select and plant the same corn you would like to gather. A prolific corn is fine for early use, while a hard flint corn is best for storage. By all means, be sure to get the best seed available. It might be advisable to plant some prolific corn for fall use and the old variety for spring use. Please remember that you will not need so much corn if you have plenty of other feed crops. I've also had some inquiries as to the time to plant, some plant according to the moon, but I cannot give you any advice, as I've never planted by the moon. If you believe in planting by the moon I'd say stick to your belief, but if you do not so believe then follow the best corn maker in your neighborhood. I'm a great believer in following the man who succeeds with anything.

Sallie has been in high all this week with her garden work. Sallie is a great believer in planting immediately after a big rain. She says you can always get a good stand if you will plant quickly after a big rain. She generally plants and gets things up before the next rain. Sallie is a great weather prophet and plants everything by the moon. I don't believe in planting by the moon but Sallie does believe in planting by the moon so she has her way and I have mine. There is this difference, and that is, I make a failure while Sallie makes a success. If you want to know when and how Sallie plants any certain crop I'll be glad to tell you if you will send me a return card. Sallie has completed her garden work for the present. She has planted a few rows of everything to be grown in her garden. She will plant again on Good Friday and that is why she does not plant very much at this time. If we have frost she will only lose about two weeks. Chances are we will not have any more frost.

Now is the time to prepare your sweet potato patch. There is one community in this county where they never fail to make sweet potatoes. I passed through that community the other day and noticed that they were preparing the land for sweet potatoes. They select a good mellow spot of sandy soil and put out lot fertilizer just as early as possible. They, first, break the land, then put out the lot fertilizer and list on it. When they are ready to put out the slips they list two more furrows on it, knock the bed off with a hoe and stick the slips out as usual. These folks make enough potatoes for table use, for the hogs, cows, mules and then have some to sell. They do not buy fertilizer for potatoes. Prepare your patch now if you want lots of potatoes.

We boys have been having a lot of discussion the past few days about planting cotton. My neighbors are all cotton growers but they do not know what to do this time. Some of them have gotten seed loans and some have made application for livestock loans at the Montgomery bank. I have not made application for a loan as I'm forever and a day through with this money borrowing business. I never expect to agree to pay any more interest. We have about 40 big loads of leaves and trash in our mule barn and cow lot and when we take it out there should be at least 60 loads. Where this gives out our cotton patch will stop. We are not buying any commercial fertilizer this year. The other boys can borrow money and buy fertilizer if they want to, but not me. I guess it is advisable for every farmer to plant a few acres in cotton, but it should be only a few. I'm begging my neighbors to make as much crop as they can with what they have, but not to create any debts.

Easter Sunday is only a few weeks off and that means "Good Friday" is just ahead of us. Sallie plants her big garden on Good Friday and believe me she plants everything on that day. She is already preparing the rows and putting the cow lot fertilizer out. Sallie saves her own garden seed and she puts them down freely when she plants. She believes it better to thin out rather than replant. If you are not ready you should get ready for gardening on Good Friday. We all admire a good gardener.

Elba Courthouse Will Be Given New Coat Of Paint

Work is now in progress on some minor repairs at the local courthouse and plans made by Commissioners Court call for a general repainting of the entire structure, inside and out. The walls of the building, which have been in a bad state since the flood of March, 1929, are being cleaned this week and put in shape for the new paint.

The roof of the building will also be repaired, as well as a number of other defects. It is also stated that the project calls for some repairs at the almshouse and jail, which are badly needed for the maintenance of the property and for the comfort of the inmates of the two institutions. The work is in charge of Mr. Lamar Fleming, of Enterprise. Commissioner L. F. Young and Judge J. A. Carnley were appointed as the committee to look after the work, so we are informed. It was also stated that so far as possible labor furnished through the R. F. C. will be used on the projects.

T. E. L. S. S. CLASS QUILT DISPLAY A SUCCESS—

The quilt display sponsored by the T. E. L. Class of the Baptist Sunday School proved a success.

There were so many beautiful quilts it was diffifcult for the judges to decide which one merited the blue ribbon, but they decided as follows:

The modern quilt—(Martha Washington flower garden)—Mrs. Carrie Bullard.

The old quilt—(Cross-roads thru Rocky Mountains) Mrs. T. D. Kendrick, made by Miss Mat Halstead.

The oldest quilt—Mrs. Annie Waters, made by Mrs. Waters' great-great-grandmother.

The prettiest yo-yo spread—Mrs. George Collier.

The prettiest crocheted spread—Mrs. W. H. Simmons.

Quilt pieced by small boy—Joseph Hough.

Quilt pieced by youngest child—Martha Mullins.

Honorable mention was made of Mrs. B. S. Franklin's collection of quilts and bed spread. Also of Mrs. Oswell Dowling's and Mrs. L. P. Mullins' "step around the mountain quilts." They were very beautiful and so nearly alike the judges failed to decide between them. Mention was also made of a pretty lavender quilt entered by Mrs. R. G. Hutchison, teacher of the class, and an antique quilt entered by Mrs. J. O. English, which was the most beautifully quilted.

The judges were Mrs. F. H. Murphree, Mrs. J. O. English and Mrs. W. H. Simmons of Ozark, who was visiting Elba.

Auburn Specialist Endorses Garden Projects Sponsored By R. F. C. County Director

On last Friday morning at nine o'clock in the office of the Director of the Social Service Department of the Coffee County Child Welfare Board, Mr. Julian Brown, extension horticulturist of Auburn, led a discussion on the problem of R. F. C. gardens, at which were present representatives from a number of civic and religious organizations.

Mr. Brown was heartily in favor of individual gardens for every family in Coffee County. He felt that the R. F. C. idea in distributing the individual packages of seed was to encourage each individual to have his own garden if possible. He feels further that when a man has gotten in the habit of having a garden he will continue to be more self-supporting as the years go by.

The main use for the community garden, as suggested by Mr. Brown, is the raising of vegetables for canning later on. Every winter in Coffee County and other counties there is a great need for vegetable foodstuffs. These can be raised on the community plots of land, contributed by public spirited citizens, fertilized and worked by R. F. C. workers. Later the vegetables can be gathered and canned in community canneries by these same R. F. C. workers and stored away for the winter use of the needy.

Mr. Brown further suggested that the home and farm demonstration agents of the county would be the logical people to take oversight of these gardens and of the community canning. Of course, in each community an individual R. F. C. worker will be employed to work under the direction of the farm and home demonstration agents.

Coffee County is so essentially agricultural that there is scarcely a family but that will be able to get a garden plot. The directions which are sent out from Auburn are to be given out with the seed packages, which go to the individual families. These directions supply the needed information for planting and cultivating the garden.

Already the different committees in the various towns of Coffee County are getting the plots and fertilizer donated for these gardens. By the first of April it is hoped that many seeds will be in the ground and a good start be made toward the accomplishment of the garden program.

Fourth Leadership School Held Here Last Tuesday

The fourth leadership school for home demonstration club women was held in the high school building in Elba Tuesday, March 21. The project undertaken by the county club women this year has been clothing construction and design. Leaders chosen by their fellow club women have attended these schools and carried back to their communities lessons in solving the clothing problems of the family, a knowledge of materials, an appreciation of beauty in line and color and skill in fitting.

Two demonstrations have been made at each meeting by Miss Allye Hughes, county agent, assigned by Miss Dorothy Dean, clothing specialist of the extension service, Auburn. These demonstrations have included alteration of commercial patterns, dress fittings, fitting sleeves and seam finishes, care and use of machine attachments, tailored finishes, dress designs, colors and adaptation of plain patterns to present day styles.

A woman's rally is planned for mid-Summer when those leaders who have merited them will receive leadership certificates. Leadership has constantly increased among the club women despite the depression, and Miss Dean has predicted that Coffee County will probably lead the State in the number of leadership certificates awarded.

Two Arrests At Geneva In Forest Ranger's Death

GENEVA, March 23.—Homer Jackson, 35, of Geneva, and Ben Aplin, 36, of Covington County, were in the Geneva County jail today facing murder charges in the slaying of Will Tubberville, 39, forest ranger for the Jackson Lumber Co., whose body was found riddled near the Geneva-Covington County line Saturday morning.

Jackson patrols woods on the State reservation near Geneva, while Aplin is a farmer and during forest fires in the Geneva section is employed as an extra fire fighter. Both men had worked with Tubberville the night preceding his slaying when the latter directed a fight against several small fires on the land is in his charge, according to Geneva County officials.

Aplin, while a recident of Covington County, lived near the place where Tubberville's body was found. Neither he nor Jackson has made any statement in reference to Tubberville's death, other than to deny any part in the slaying, officers said.

A warrant for a third person, believed involved in the slaying of the forest ranger, is understood to have been issued.

Until the Probate office here receives this authority the warrants will be held.
